

WHAT SHE SAID – THE NEXT GENERATION

Lyrics by Mark Osier
Music by Larry Warner

She said, "A lie's a poor way to say hello" what did she mean? How could I know?
She talked of finding doors into my heart
I didn't get it, not one small part

CHORUS

what she said, it made no sense to me what'd she say? Something about V.D.? what'd she say? I've got no clue, you see
I can't understand a thing she said

She said "The days ahead are worth living for"
How could I know she meant "go to the store"
I thought I knew exactly what to do
But I'll know next time that I have no clue

CHORUS

I said "Do you and I ever see the same things?
You think of sun and flowers and Spring
I think of parodies and blood and gore
And what do you mean, you're not going to war?"

what'd she say? It made no sense to me what'd she say? And am I still on key? what'd she say? This song is done, you see
And I still have no clue to what she said
Yes I still have no clue to what she said... she said
